

JEROME, WALLACE H., 1909-2006

Turkey producer, hatcheryman, breeder, processor, integrator and innovator. A native of Wisconsin. B.S. University of Wisconsin 1941, he started in 4-H club work and progressed through every phase of the turkey industry. Jerome has served actively in many organizations in both the poultry industry and in local and civic affairs. He is a member of World's Poultry Science (life). National Turkey Federation, Southeastern Poultry & Egg Association Wisconsin Agri-Business Council, Wisconsin State Board of Agriculture and many others. He received "Honorary Recognition" from University of Wisconsin College of Ag & Life Sciences, Alpha Gamma Rho "Man of the Year". Wisconsin Manufacturers & Commerce "20 Year Award", Wisconsin Farm Bureau "Distinguished Service Award", "President's Club" University of Minnesota Silver Sponsor Award from National FFA Foundation, and many others. Poultry Hall of Fame, 1992.

KENNETT, H. CONNOR, JR., 1932 –

Government administrator with extensive background and insight into the industry's makeup and problems, he blended the forces of USDA and industry into workable and acceptable programs. A native of North Carolina. B.S. 1954 North Carolina State. Employed in Poultry Division USDA 32 years where he rose to the position of Division Director. A member of Poultry Science Association and the American Poultry Historical Society, he has developed many of the regulations and guidelines that serve the producer and the consumer in the inspection and standardization of poultry, eggs and egg products. Recognized with many Certificates of Merit Awards by USDA he received the Superior Service Award and the Presidential award a "Meritorious Executive". Public Service Award National Broiler Council. "Workhorse of the Year" Southeastern Poultry and Egg Association Honorary Life Membership National Turkey Federation, "Egg Producer of the Year". United Egg Producers and many others. Poultry Hall of Fame, 1992.

MAY, KENNETH N., 1930-

Teacher, researcher and key executive in the broiler industry as it moved to become the country's most desirable and most consumed meal. A native of Louisiana: B.S. 1952, M.S. 1955 Louisiana State University Ph.D. 1959 Purdue University. He taught at University of Georgia and Mississippi State University before moving to Industry in 1970 where he became chairman and CEO of Holly Farms, and since 1988 has served as technical advisor to National Broiler Council as well as director of two other large poultry organizations. May past president of Poultry Science Association, World's Poultry Science Association, Institute of Food Technologists, Association of Southern Agricultural Workers, member and past president of American Poultry Historical Society. Worked extensively in government/industry advisory liaison roles. Fellow of Poultry science, Honorary Doctor of Agriculture (Purdue University) adjunct Professor of Poultry Science, North Carolina University, Poultry Hall of Fame, 1992.

STADELMAN, WILLIAM J., 1917-2007

Teacher, researcher and widely acclaimed products technologist. A native of Washington, B.S. 1940 Washington State University, M.S. 1942 Ph.D. 1948 Pennsylvania State University. Stadelman is recognized nationally and internationally as an expert in egg nutrition, egg products and poultry meat products. Employed at Washington State 1948-1955 and at Purdue University 1955-1983 it is acknowledged that more than 75% of the poultry food technologists can trace their training back to him. Member: Poultry Science Association, Institute of Food technologists World's Poultry Science Association, American Association for Advancement of Science, and many other scientific bodies, Stadelman has been elected Fellow of four scientific societies, received Ralston Purina Teaching Award, Christee Award from National Egg Board, Served in the Navy in World War II, authored more than 200 scientific papers, all or part of 7 books. Poultry Hall of Fame, 1992.

SUNDE, MILTON L., 1921-

Teacher, researcher, nutritionist. A native of South Dakota, B.S. South Dakota State College 1947, M.S. 1949. Ph.D. 1950 University of Wisconsin. Staff member of Poultry Science Department University of Wisconsin 1949-1987. Sunde distinguished himself as a very practical teacher with a wealth of research experience and hands on approach to industry problems. Member and past president of Poultry Science Association Member and past President of American Poultry Historical Society, Chairman of National Research Council Poultry Nutrition Committee, Associate Editor of Poultry Science Journal. Boy Scout leader. FFA advisor. An infantry officer in World War II. Fellow of Poultry Science Association, recipient of Ralston Purina Teaching Award. University of Wisconsin teaching Award. AMFA award, Feed Ingredient Travel award, and many other recognitions. Poultry Hall of Fame, 1992.